Prologue: Science Drama

We are living in the era where any and everything can be created in a scientific lab through artificial intelligence be it human clones, poisonous drugs, antidote, gene babies, vaccines, viruses, biological war weapons Etc....

So my this short story is based in science lab or artificial engineering lab , where few scientists tried to make laboratory sun but unfortunately their invention/ gadget was robbed by other scientist who tried to misuse it.

So whether this invention was misused or saved for future use lets read it in coming chapters.

Chapter 1:

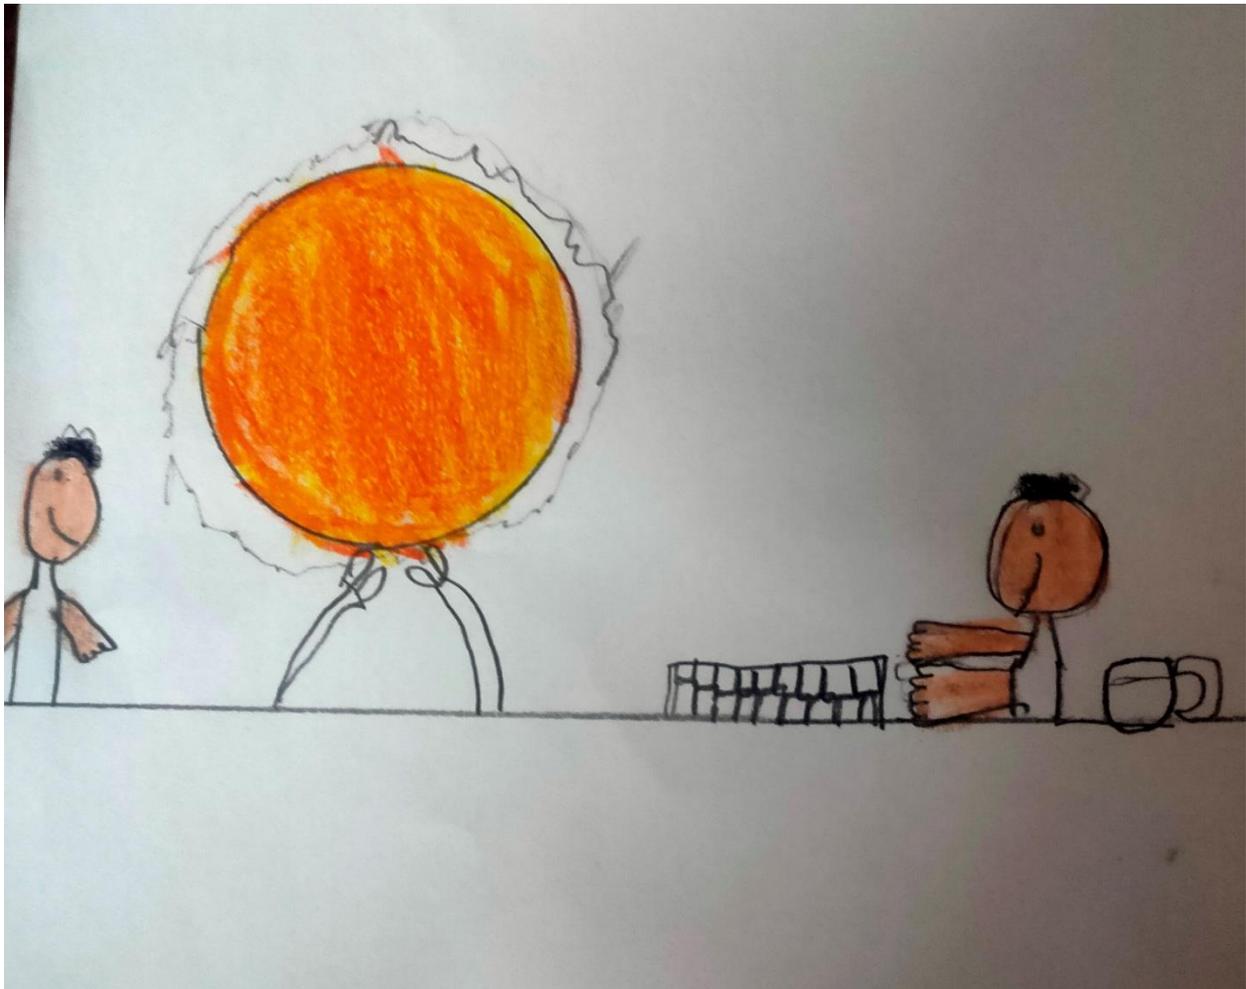

Creation of SUN BY Nano AI (artificial intelligence)

Tokyo NANO TECH AI Intelligence LAB.

In Tokyo Nano tech lab is known for its nano particle inventions. Many scientists work in this lab to invent next generation things. There were 2 scientists in this lab who were working on a project nano sun to create an artificial sun, so that in future if sun disappears, still earth can have light and heat .

One day when they were working on this project nano sun, suddenly by mistake one of the scientists dropped coffee on the keyboard, and because of these the nano sun started to expand, But luckily at correct time the other scientist was able to stop it from growing. After this project the nano sun was shelved.

The lab use to sell its unused and not required things and while selling the lab trash the project nano sun gadgets was also sold.

Chapter 2:

Nano Sun Robbery

In Tokyo there was a boy named Hayato. He was very intelligent and used to make gadgets. Once he went to market to buy accessories to make gadgets. He came across the nano sun gadget, out of curiosity he bought the gadget and kept it in his room.

He explored the gadget and realized that it was not simple technology and something mysterious things are inside the gadget. One night someone was hiding in the room and stole Hayato's gadgets. When Hayato got up next day, he saw all of his gadgets were missing.

He thought that someone stole them. He called his friends and went to the gadget museum. In the gadget museum they found a guide named Minato. He took Hayato and his friends to the gadget museum and they all lived in his house with him.

Chapter 3:

Protection of Nano sun

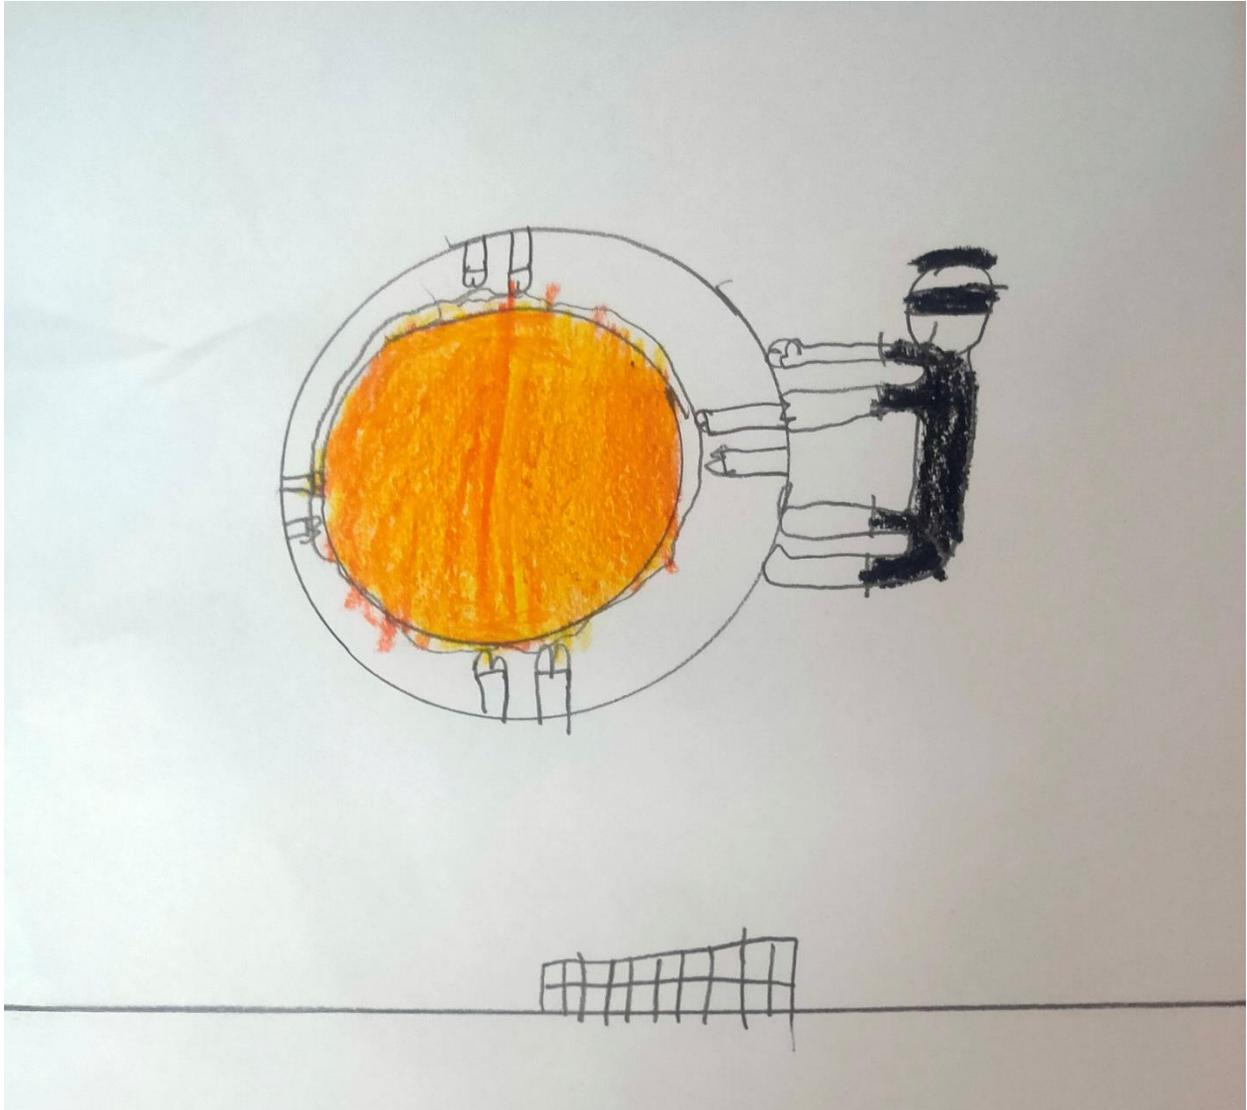

Hayato told about a mysterious gadget story and how it was stolen from his room. He took them to the gadget museum, but some days later the gadgets was stolen from the gadget museum.

After this robbery everyone wanted to know who the robber is. After some days Hayato and his friends saw someone wearing the robber's clothes but he could not see his face.

They called the police. When the police came they saw no one was there, but suddenly a trap fell on them and then the robber showed his face. It was Minato.

He told them his plan; it was to take over Japan. Then he took Hayato and his friends to his base and by mistake he started the nano sun. He tried to stop it but it did not work. It expanded too much and everyone in Tokyo was able to see it. Hayato tried to stop it but it did not work. Minato told him about the robber's suit. The robber's suit was made out of Nano technology and was very strong. It had weapon gadgets attached on it, which can stop anything. Hayato wore the suit and tried to stop it. It worked and sun expansion was controlled.

Hayato stopping the sun

Hayato became the hero of Japan. He got his own nano tech lab and could keep the robber's suit. He was known as ultra x and Minato became his lab partner.

Epilogue

But wait if you thought our adventure was over you ain't read nothing yet!

At this very movement Hayato and Minato are busy making their next invention for the benefit of human kind
